Selectmen's Report

The Selectmen and Overseers of the Poor having attended to their duties as defined by the Statutes, respectfully submit the following report:—

POOR

The expenses in this department for the past year have been $423.61, a larger amount than was expended last year, caused by the serious illness of Mrs. Chas. Jewett, who had been self-supporting since 1905 until last March, when she became ill and unable longer to support herself.

HIGHWAYS

It has been our aim through the past year to keep the highways in their usual repair. The appropriation for this work was not as large as in former years, therefore we were obliged to omit some work which we would otherwise have done.

BRIDGES AND CULVERTS

During the past year we have replanked numerous bridges in the Central and West parts of the town, we also built two new bridges in the west part at considerable expense. The iron bridges were found to be badly in need of paint, in view of this fact we had them all thoroughly painted,

Report of School Committee

The School Committee submit the following report :

The school houses are in good condition now with the exception of the one in East Whately. We hope during the coming year to make such repairs on this building as to relieve the crowded conditions in the primary room.

We have reduced the expense of transportation of children to a great extent, and we have tried to follow out the decisions of the State Board of Education in regard to transportation.

The Superintendent's report will cover the work done in the schools.

We recommend the following appropriations:

Superintendent's Report.

To the School Committee of Whately:—

Gentlemen of the School Committee:—I have the honor to submit to you my first report as Superintendent of the public schools of Whately.

I found the work of the year well begun under the direction of the former Superintendent upon my arrival late in September, and I realized after visiting the various schools that they had had the benefit of careful supervision and conscientious teaching. It has been my desire to maintain the high standard set by my predecessor.

The corps of teachers is such that the parents may rest assured that their children are under the care of skillfull sympathetic teachers, whose unselfish devotion to their work merits the expression of that interest in the welfare of their children which prompts frequent visitation of the schools and hearty cooperation with the teachers on the part of the parents. Such an exhibition of interest stimulates the teachers to do their best work, and a conference with the parents often enables the teachers to understand more readily the individual pupil. This individual attention is highly desirable, but often only partially realized because the large number of pupils under one teacher's care makes it impossible, but anything tending toward an approximate realization of the principle, will be mutually appreciated.

The past year has been a banner one for the school life of the town by virtue of the newly erected school building. I wish to congratulate the committee and the town upon the result; an absolutely modern building finely equipped for the intellectual development and physical well being of the pupils in a delightful location. In the near future some play-ground paraphernalia can be erected, an interest in school gardening aroused and worked out, and some industrial and domestic features introduced into the curriculum. We will then be in a position to invite public inspection to a school system which is striving to increase its usefulness to the community in some of the more recent approved methods. Such a plan will doubtless meet the approval of the new educational commission, the attention of which will be directly largely along industrial lines for some time.

The town has now an equipment which affords it a special opportunity to effect a system which will attract general attention because of its useful and progressive character.

TRANSPORTATION

The problem of transportation has been a troublesome one in all localities. Ten cases referred to the State Board of Education recently were of such a different nature as to occasion the following paragraph in the report of the Secretary of the Board:

"These (referring to the ten cases) serve to show that the problem of schooling children remote from the centers of population is not one for whose solution a general rule or formula can be found or made, either by legislative enactment or by judicial decision. There are as many distinct problems as there are children to be provided for, and they can only be solved by the good judgment and reasonableness of both committees and parents."

In discussing the same question one of the agents of the State Board reports as follows :

"The obligation of towns to maintain a sufficient number of schools is imperative. The duty of parents to see that their children attend school is still more binding being of a legal and personal nature. The towns are bearing willingly a heavy burden to maintain good schools. Their financial ability is limited, and unnecessary demands for conveyance of children should not be made. Reasonable cooperation is essential to secure the education of the children."

The Board further advises against the setting of distance, age or grade limits as it is not possible to deal with the matter in a general way without inflicting hardship in some particular case. Whenever a difficulty does arise, a general public discussion of the exact conditions, with a careful consideration of the age, sex and health of the children involved, supplemented by the realization of the moral obligation of the town and the parent in the education of children, ought to result in a satisfactory settlement of the question.

REPAIRS

In the East school the removal of a partition has enlarged the primary room. This was a temporary arrangement and will not be satisfactory until another entrance is provided on the east side of the building, to avoid interference with the primary room by the upper grade pupils in passing in and out of the building during school hours. Some desks from the South center building would correct a little crowding in the primary room. I should also recommend the re-arrangement of the sanitariums and some interior decoration.

Some excellent work is being done in the regular subjects of the curriculum. All the schools are giving a preparation for any of our neighboring high schools and the pupils leaving the schools in June should do good work in other schools. With the development of the State College in technical and other lines a greater opportunity than ever will be offered to the ambitious to secure higher education. Care should be exercised by parents that the foundation for that special training be laid, by keeping their children in school as many years as possible.

The work in music and drawing is set forth in the appended reports submitted by the supervisors. The Medical Inspector has been particularly accommodating in cases needing special attention.

I wish to thank the committee and teachers for their loyal support and hearty cooperation, and to express, in conclusion, my appreciation for the cordial reception I have been accorded by all.

Respectfully,

CHESTER D. STILES.

Report of Supervisor of Music

To Mr. C. D. Stiles, Superintendent of Schools:

In comparing the condition of the schools of Whately now with that of my first year as Supervisor of Music a great change appears. Then, music had not been taught in the schools for some time, which made it entirely new study for the children. We necessarily began at the beginning, teaching pupils of all grades the very first step, as now the first year pupils are taught. Perhaps the distance traveled may be shown by the fact that to-day, in some of the schools, exercises and songs including soprano, alto and tenor parts can be sung quite readily.

The general plan followed now is the same as then, varied year by year to suit the different classes. Individual singing, being the foundation of all good work in music, has held a prominent position. It may seem strange that the children enjoy this branch of the subject but that they do is shown by their asking to sing the individual exercises in preference to other things.

There is always something ahead to be attained, one of these things being in our schools, better tone quality. This is constantly being worked for and faithful effort will some day bring it about.

Respectfully submitted,

BELLE BULLIS.

Report of Supervisor of Drawing

To Mr. C. D. Stiles, Superintendent of Schools:

In present the subject of drawing, I have aimed to cultivate in the student an appreciation of the beauty of order.

The work is progressing and the schools are accomplishing much towards laying a foundation for acquiring knowledge in drawing.

Respectfully submitted,

LUCILE GRAVESTAIN.

Report of Building Committee

At the last annual meeting in March, 1909, it was voted to erect a two room School Building near the Center of the town and a committee composed of, L. A. Crafts, W. H. Adkins and A. H. Beers, chosen to carry the vote into effect. Plans for a School building were made by Architect R. F. Putnam, under the direction of the committee, which were submitted and explained at a subsequent Town Meeting, when it was voted to instruct the committee to build the building according to the plans of the architect. At the same meeting the Selectmen were authorized to borrow $7,000.00 to pay for the same.

As will be seen by the Selectmen's report, bills have been paid on account of the School building amounting to $6,722.60. There remains to be paid of bills already incurred about $1,109.00 for which provision must be made. The building was completed so late in the season that no grading could be done to the grounds and no fence has been built, these are subjects that should receive consideration at the town meeting March 7.

Respectfully submitted,

L. A. CRAFTS, for the building committee.
